Dear Reader,

When I read these words that once George Bernard Shaw put down, I connect it to our daily work in digitalLIFE4CE project. Within our work, we are connecting and integrating innovation in eHealth within our partner regions and in transnational cooperation. When we started almost two years ago, it seemed like a very ambitious target. Now, six month before the end of our project, we proudly can see the fruits of our collaboration. Those are the results of transnational cooperation and best practices, that are lived in our consortium to bring the spirit of #cooperationinscentral to live. We accomplish our targets and are lucky to learn from our stakeholders about the importance of the outputs and integration into their institutions. We are now in the stage of our last working packages and therefore we are in the process of capitalising our pilots, integrating our CEDHES Hubs and preparing the long term integration in the partner regions.
